PBS: National Feeds To Remain In Clear

by BARNEY PARKER
News Editor

SAN JOSE, Calif.—Even though the Public Broadcasting Service has no plans to scramble its national satellite signals, K-SAT Broadcasting Inc. is calling for the network to abandon plans to scramble and is circulating a petition for that purpose.

K-SAT is an audio subcarrier that refers to itself as the TVRO information and action channel.

PBS currently is testing equipment that eventually might encode its internal satellite signals, the feeds of teleconferences and special audio and data feeds, according to Stu Cantor, a spokesman for PBS.

The scrambling is being done on Westar 5, transponder 23, and it is "separate and distinct" from any regular programming that the network is sending to its affiliates.

"PBS is not now scrambling its national satellite programming services and it has no current plans to do so," Cantor said.

"PBS is examining and testing the suitability of new multichannel sound technologies to its programming services, but intends to continue to make the national program service and other regular public television programming available to public television stations in an unencoded form," Cantor said.

"PBS also is concerned about protecting its internal communications and user-finance services and will explore whether such protection is warranted. Any future action by PBS will reflect its commitment to insure the widespread availability of public television programming."

Officials at K-SAT reportedly recently became alarmed at reports that satellite scrambling equipment had been ordered and shipped to the PBS uplink in McLean, Va.□

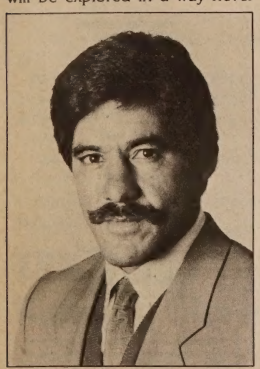
Rivera Interview

Drug Special Plans To Air Live Busts

by BARNEY PARKER
News Editor

NEW YORK—Geraldo Rivera will apply his journalistic talents to what he feels may be the biggest domestic problem in the United States – drugs – at 8 p.m. (ET) Tuesday on KTVT, WGN and WPIX and other independent stations.

In a two-hour telecast, "American Vice: The Doping of a Nation," the war against illicit drugs will be explored in a way never before attempted – on live television.



Geraldo Rivera

"If living room sofas came equipped with seat belts, I'd advise them to buckle up," Rivera said as a way of warning those who plan to view his special.

The telecast will be unique because, with the exception of a limited number of pre-taped background pieces, the special will be live. The taped pieces include two undercover operations in which Rivera worked with police as a drug dealer and a money man.

The special's climax will be a live drug bust from one of eight locations around the country. Other scheduled live events include an illegal crossing by aliens on the U.S.-Mexican border, a hospital emergency room filled with overdose victims, a courtroom where dealers are being sentenced and the real Miami vice cops in action.

The program will begin by showing where drugs come from and it will end by offering solutions.

The show, Rivera said during a phone interview, won't be another dry documentary that looks at drugs. It will be passionate and risky.

"Passion is something that helps people identify with a topic," Rivera said. "I think to stand off from the problem, as network reporters often do, that's not going to get it done. It's not going to help solve the problem that we're complaining about.

Industry Protest

Coalition Replies In FCC Inquiry

by LLOYD COVENS
Editor/Publisher

WASHINGTON—In a tersely worded, 26-page reply to previous filings to the Federal Communications Commission, the Satellite Television Viewing Rights Coalition has asked the FCC to "accurately report back to Congress that the marketplace is not working."

Citing the lack of third-party packagers, half-hearted attempts by cable operators to sell to dish owners and the general consumer resistance to buying decoders, the Coalition asked for full hearings before the FCC.

The Coalition, which is composed of several leading satellite equipment manfacturers, is represented by Washington lawyers Richard Brown and Fred Finn, who formerly were the counsel for the Satellite Television Industry Association (SPACE).

"The nation's largest cable operators, under common ownership with, or controlling, the major satellite services, are strangling a newly-emerging dish industry in much the same way that some telephone companies and broadcasters sought to strangle or control the cable industry before the Commission stepped in," said the filing.

The Coalition, like SelecTV several weeks ago, asked that the Commission ensure that the TVRO market remain independent.

'There are two prices charged, one for a cable subscriber and a much higher one for a dish subscriber.' —Coalition report

"Is it in the public interest for the home satellite industry to develop as an appendage of the nation's largest cable television conglomerates, or should it develop as an independent industry, capable of bringing service where other technologies have not," said the Coalition.

The reply charged "the rules are required to prevent one industry from gobbling up a newly emerging competitive one and thereby adversely affecting the consumer's competitive choice."

Citing comments made by Tele-Communications Inc., the nation's largest cable company, the paper alleged that cable's "marketing effort is primarily a defensive one. Just enough effort should be made to sign up subscribers so that the governmental heat is kept off and others are prevented from entering the market. But not too much effort should be made which could harm the overriding interest in cable development."

The Coalition repeatedly struck at the issue of fair pricing, saying that dish owners were being asked to pay more in subscriber fees than cable subscribers for the same service.

While noting that the "marketing development" rebates from HBO and Showtime paid to cable

PrimeTime 24 Signs For F2 Berth

NEW YORK—Satellite Broadcast Networks has leased three transponders on Satcom 2R to distribute PrimeTime 24, a scrambled package of three network superstations that it plans to uplink in early 1987.

"With RCA Americom's tradition of technical innovation and quality performance, SBN is well-positioned to serve the home satellite dish consumer today and well into the future," Kazie Metzger, president of SBN, said in a press release.

PrimeTime 24 will offer a three-channel package of NBC, CBS and ABC broadcast stations originating from New York, Chicago and Atlanta. The three channels will be scrambled using the VideoCipher 2 technology and will retail for $49.95 a year.

SBN, which plans to use transponders 3, 11 and 23 on Satcom 2, has yet to reveal which network affiliate feed will come from each city.

The SBN contract also provides an option for the three signals to be delivered in the future aboard the high-powered, Ku-band Satcom K-1 satellite (85 degrees west), which also is owned by RCA.

Janet Foster, executive vice-president for SBN, said her firm reviewed several satellites before changing the company's original plan to broadcast from Galaxy 3.

"The satellite scene has become very competitive," said Foster, who noted that Satcom 2's eastern orientation (72 degrees west) would deliver a strong signal to the Carribean area where the firm also plans to sell the service to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Dish owners will be able to subscribe to the service through a toll-free number or by contacting home satellite retail dealers.□

Western Union Moves CSS

UPPER SADDLE RIVER, N.J.—It took two tries, but Western Union finally was able in the first week of November to put the Caribbean Satellite Systems on a transponder that is satisfactory to both companies.

On Oct. 30, Western Union moved CSS from Westar 5, transponder 16, to transponder 3. On Nov. 6, CSS again was moved, this time to transponder 23.

"They had a better signal to the countries they intended to reach on that transponder (23)," said Peg Abramson of Western Union. "We had to do certain traffic transfers and we had always planned to move them from the one that they were on (16). However, each particular transponder has certain characteristics that are better for certain areas."□ operators had ended, "neither the HBO or Viacom (Showtime/The Movie Channel) price has dropped one cent as a result of the elimination of this substantial charge per month...they have pocketed the approximately $5 per month...the consumer is no better off."

"There are two prices charged, one for a cable subscriber and a much higher one for a dish subscriber. As a result, both a la carte and packaged prices are inflated...there is nothing to prevent these prices from escalating once the Congressional and Justice Department focus is removed."

Regarding decoders, the Coalition noted that General Instrument plans no reduction in the $395 retail price of the VideoCipher 2 until 500,000 units are sold, "thus the chances of a price reduction to consumers may be years away."

The FCC is amassing all comments submitted in response to its "Notice of Inquiry" and may report its findings, and potential further action, in January.□

Dramatic Drug Special To Offer Solutions

And I think that's why television should be part of the process of solving these problems as well as raising them."

To illustrate the problem of drugs, Rivera has decided to use the dramatic power of television, and that's why he plans to air a live drug bust.

"How do you demonstrate in the most graphic way possible that the situation is out of hand, and that the money (for enforcement) is being wasted. You do it on live television. It's so prevalent that we can guarantee the viewing public that someplace in America a pusher is going to go down."

The bust will involve an undercover buy, then the execution of a search warrant or an arrest warrant for the criminals involved.

The drug problem is a story that Rivera has been covering for 15 years, since he first reported on the 1971 heroin epidemic in New York. And it's a story he plans to pursue relentlessly.

"I'm sure that dope will die again in terms of the mass of reporters, but it's an issue I'm going to stay with because I really do believe that it is among the biggest domestic stories of our time.

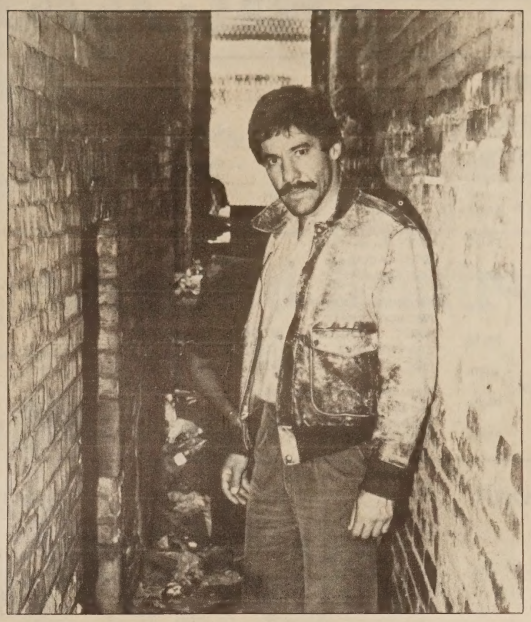
"Let me take crack as an example. All crack is, is a diabolically brilliant marketing scheme. It was a way of making cocaine cheap enough so they could expand into the kid market. So right away they expand their potential market by tens of millions of people.

"Crack is making cocaine an equal opportunity narcotic. And I don't think people not on the (drug) beat could have or did understand that."

He then pointed out that doing hit-and-run exposes is a style of journalism he wants to avoid.

"I think that too often reporters are like birds on an electric wire. That's what Eugene McCarthy said. One flies on, they all fly on. One flies off, they all fly off."

"American Vice: The Doping of a Nation" is Rivera's first major solo documentary since he left ABC's "20-20" in 1985. He resigned because the network refused to air a report he had done that linked Marilyn Monroe to John and Robert Kennedy.



Geraldo Rivera: Out in the street.

Even though Rivera left under sour circumstances, he said he is making no conscious effort to prove anything to ABC.

"Very rarely did news management get involved in censoring a story or telling me not to do something," he said. "They let me be myself, basically. I really haven't got that many complaints about that, generally, except for that last fatal story."

Rivera's special is a co-production of the Tribune Entertainment Co., which also co-produced the special "The Mystery of Al Capone's Vaults" that Rivera narrated.

Tribune Entertainment and Rivera have signed to do three additional documentaries that also will take a hard-hitting approach on live television.

"I think that what we're going to have to do is rediscover live television and rediscover chance-taking and risk-taking like the old days, and that's what I hope I bring back – that whole put-your-ass-on-the-line-once-in-a-while philosophy."□

Hi-Net Mulls Home DBS

WASHINGTON—Hi-Net Communications, which delivers entertainment programming via Ku-band to more than 1,200 hotels across the country, is considering entering the home market within the next 18 months.

Hi-Net uses three Ku-band transponders on GTE Spacenet to distribute the Cable News Network, ESPN and the pay-per-view channel Satellite Cinema. The company also is involved with videoconferences via satellite.

"It's really very much in the formative stage," said David Beddow, vice president-general manager of Comsat Video Enterprises, which is involved in Hi-Net with Holiday Inns.

"We're looking at expanding to other institutional marketplaces and to the home."

Hi-Net's main hangup in expanding to the home market is a desire to solidify its business with hotels, Beddow said. The company is in the process of expanding to more than 1,400 such sites nationwide.

Hi-Net also is determining what size dish would provide satisfactory reception for home users.

"We do know that 1.8 meters is feasible," Beddow said. "We're looking at some things smaller than that."□

MTV Brings Back Animated Beatles Series

by BARNEY PARKER
News Editor

NEW YORK—For a generation of children in the mid-1960s, "The Beatles Cartoons" was a first introduction to the Fab Four. Sure, this generation had heard their music and seen their pictures, and maybe they'd seen them on "The Ed Sullivan Show."

But some got to know the Beatles on a personal basis by tuning in for 30 minutes every Saturday or Sunday morning and singing along to their favorite tunes.

The cartoons originally appeared on ABC and later were syndicated. They also were shown around the world and were dubbed into Japanese, Spanish, Italian and German.

"The Beatles Cartoons" showed that John was the leader, Paul was the cute one, George was happy-go-lucky and Ringo was the dumb one. At least that's what the cartoons said.

These young fans didn't know that the cartoon voices weren't the real voices of their heroes from Liverpool. But at the time, school children mimicked these voices so that they, too, could have English accents.

The cartoon version of Paul, John, George and Ringo.

"The Beatles Cartoons" were produced in 1965 as part of the wave of Beatles memorabilia that was then washing up on these shores. The Beatles reportedly gave a reluctant go-ahead to the project, but the cartoons were never shown in England because the Fabs were dissatisfied with the quality of the shows.

"The Beatles Cartoons" were like an animated version of the series "The Monkees," which was created in 1966. In the cartoons, the Fabs traveled the world seeking adventure and always getting the girls.

The plot usually consisted of Ringo getting into trouble and the others mirthfully rescuing him. Plus, every show included at least two songs done in the form of animated music videos.

The music included most songs from the period that began with the album "Meet the Beatles" and ended with the album "Rubber Soul," which was released in late 1965.

Memorable moments include a scene where the lads are lost in the desert, searching for water and they come upon a peanut vendor. Ringo, in the dumbest voice imaginable, says: "None for me. Once I start, I can't stop. Hyuk. Hyuk."

MTV: Music Television will air "The Beatles Cartoons" at 7 p.m. (ET) Monday through Friday this week only, and at 10 a.m. (ET) Saturdays and Sundays beginning this weekend and continuing for several months.

In addition, an animated version of the song "Twist and Shout" is scheduled to become part of the network's video rotation.

MTV decided to run the cartoons following the network's successful revival of the series "The Monkees," according to Doug Herzog, MTV's vice president of news and special programs.

"We were sitting around, saying, 'What else can we do that's like The Monkees – this worked so well.' And somebody said, 'How about those old Beatles cartoons. They're kind of goofy and they've got all that great music,'" Herzog said.

"So somebody was put on the trail and we tracked them down, licensed them and here they are."

Herzog added: "Because it's the Beatles, and the original early Beatles music is in there, it seemed to make sense for us once again."

For those who grew up in the 1960s, the 39 half-hour cartoons will be a trip down a pleasant memory lane.

For those too young to remember the excitement created by a new Beatles record, the cartoons provide a chance to feel the magic.□

C-SPAN's Week

Network Eyes Senate And Buchwald Dinner

WASHINGTON—Highlights this week on C-SPAN include a program on the Senate, a National Press Club dinner honoring Art Buchwald and a look at what the Democrats need to do to put their man in the White House in 1988.

"The Senate as an Institution" was taped Nov. 18 in Clemson, S.C., for airing at 7 p.m. (ET) Monday. The two-hour program also will be shown at 1 a.m. Tuesday.

The program was sponsored by the Strom Thurmond Institute of Public Policy and includes Sens. Tom Eagleton of Missouri and Thurmond.

On Wednesday and Thursday, C-SPAN will cover the American Enterprise Institute's 10th annual public policy week. The gathering's luncheon speaker on Wednesday will be Vice President George Bush, who will discuss economics.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, The National Press Club's Fourth Estate Award will be presented to Buchwald. On hand to roast and toast Buchwald will be Bob Novak, Ben Bradlee and Jack Valenti.

From 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Friday, a conference titled "Turning Up the Heat" will bring together Democratic political operatives who will discuss the 1988 Democratic Presidential campaign.

At 8 p.m. Sunday, the viewer call-in program "The Week Ahead" will focus on the House leadership caucuses.□

The Disney Channel Expands To Full-Time Programming

BURBANK, Calif.—The Disney Channel will begin programming around the clock on Friday, expanding from its current schedule which runs from 6 a.m. (ET) to 1:30 a.m.

The additional hours will be filled by two feature films or specials that appeal to adults, plus episodes of "Walt Disney Presents."

"Our expanded air time will allow us to present our current programming to a different audience," said Bruce Rider, vice president of programming for The Disney Channel.

The expansion comes after a study that indicated that full-time programming would increase the channel's appeal.

"This research substantiates what we have learned earlier, that households subscribe to The Disney Channel for adults as well as children," said Stephen Fields, the channel's vice president of consumer marketing. "In fact, more than one-third of our subscribers do not have children under 12 years old."□

'Sledge Hammer!' Gets New Night

LOS ANGELES—Fans of "Sledge Hammer!" will be happy to learn that ABC planned to move the series from Friday nights to 8:30 p.m. (ET) Saturdays, beginning Nov. 22.

The move should ensure the longevity of the new series, which had been battling "Miami Vice" and "Dallas" on Fridays.

Also moving from Fridays is the series "Sidekicks," which will be seen at 8 p.m. Saturdays. Gone from the Saturday night lineup are "Life With Lucy" and "The Ellen Burstyn Show," both of which could return at a later date.

Two new situation comedies, "Dads" and "Gung Ho," will fill the 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. slot beginning Friday.□

After Dark Video

Adult Service Plans Launch

BOSTON—A new adult entertainment channel, After Dark Video Productions, plans to begin showing scrambled, triple-X rated films in January on an undetermined transponder on Spacenet 1.

After Dark will supply dish owners with an inexpensive decoder that has a key-type element. The key serves as a parental lockout and will be changed five times per year.

After Dark will begin with a five-hour schedule on Friday and Saturday nights. The service is available for a decoder cost of $200 and a year's subscription cost of $100. Prior to Dec. 15, the decoder will be available for $150.

Information can be obtained by writing After Dark Video Productions at P.O. Box 6276, Boston, MA, 02114-0016 or phoning 617-837-1042.□

NBC Shuffles Prime Schedule

NEW YORK—NBC this week will permanently move "Hill Street Blues" from its 10 p.m. (ET) slot on Thursdays to 9 p.m. Tuesdays. The change paves the way for "L.A. Law" to move from 10 p.m. Fridays to 10 p.m. Thursdays and for "Crime Story" to move from 9 p.m. Tuesdays to 10 p.m. Fridays.

NBC also reportedly is considering canceling "The A Team" and replacing it on Fridays with "Stingray," "Remington Steele" or "Rags to Riches," a new series that stars Joseph Bologna.□

Huntington Beach Says MTV Can't 'Surf' At Next Meet

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif.—The Huntington Beach city council reportedly has voted unanimously not to invite MTV: Music Television back for any future OP Pro surfing classics.

MTV was on hand over the Labor Day Weekend when the surfing championship turned into a riot in which 20 people were arrested. The trouble began on the other side of the pier from the MTV set when two girls took off their tops.

The city council came up with several rulings that would prevent the disturbance from happening again. The city didn't feel that MTV attracted an undesirable element, but that it did urge California residents to "come out and party."□
